

STANDS AT 300.

Fuller Returns Do Not Decrease Cleveland's Electoral Vote.

But Weaver Has Taken North Dakota From Harrison's Column.

INDICATIONS STILL FAVOR THE DEMOCRATS IN OHIO.

The Official Count May Show That the State Has Divided Her Electoral Vote. The Senate, as Returns so Far Indicate, Will Stand: 42 Democrats, 30 Republicans and 6 Populists—Reports From Congressional Districts—Discussing the Causes.

The only development in to-day's returns, so far as the electoral vote is concerned, is to decrease that of President Harrison by the loss of the three votes of North Dakota, which are now on the face of the returns placed in the Weaver column.

The probable political composition of the Senate is somewhat changed by returns from California and North Dakota, which indicate that the Legislatures of those States will be controlled on joint ballot by the fusionists. Should the official vote bear out these promises the Populists will have six votes in the United States Senate, the Democrats forty-two and the Republicans forty.

While the result of the election in Ohio is still undecided there is a possibility that it has divided its electoral vote. It is still claimed by both parties with the chances in favor of Cleveland.

Minnesota is still placed in the Harrison column, but the official count may give four of its votes to Weaver.

As indicated by returns made public to-day the Electoral College will stand:

WASHINGTON.
SPokane, Wash., Nov. 11.—Returns indicate from this side of the mountains that the Republicans have elected three out of four members in the Walla Walla County. It is probable that the Democrats may get one more member there and possibly two.
This includes four hold-over senators. This estimate is based upon the assumption that the Republicans have elected three out of four members in the Walla Walla County. It is probable that the Democrats may get one more member there and possibly two.
CALIFORNIA.
Cleveland May Win the State by the Small Plurality of 477.
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 11.—The latest returns from California seem to place the result of the presidential election in this State very much in doubt. Computations made on the State vote yesterday afternoon indicated that Cleveland would have a plurality of about 6,000. Returns had been received from nearly three-fourths of the precincts outside of San Francisco, and the returns from Harrison a plurality of 5,448. The returns from San Francisco are incomplete and conflicting, but the latest bulletin gave Cleveland a plurality in this city of 7,922, making Cleveland's net plurality in the State at large 2,474.
The Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee claimed that Cleveland's plurality would be 4,200, and the Republican Committee conceded the State to Cleveland by a small plurality. But the returns from the interior of the State, which have since been computed, change this materially. These later returns not only increased the total vote over 10,000, but they also increased Harrison's plurality nearly 2,000. The latest computation made was upon returns from 4,499 out of 1,234 precincts outside of San Francisco and the interior of the State. Harrison's plurality is 7,448. Taking Cleveland's plurality in San Francisco as 7,922, it gives Cleveland's net plurality in the State a plurality of 32,000.
MINNESOTA.
ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 11.—So far as can be ascertained as to the result of the election for Congressmen in Minnesota, Tawney (Rep.) is elected in the First District; McCleary (Rep.), in the Second; Hall (Dem.), in the Third; Kiefer (Rep.), in the Fourth; Fletcher (Rep.), in the Fifth; Baldwin (Dem.), in the Sixth; Feig (Rep.), in the Eighth; Nelson (Rep.), in the Eleventh; and Governor, will have a plurality over Lawler of about 15,000. Harrison carries the State by about 10,000 majority. The entire Republican State ticket is elected.
ALABAMA.
CHARLESTON, S. C., Nov. 11.—The South Carolina delegation to Congress will stand as follows:
First District—W. R. Brawley (Dem.), re-elected; Second—W. J. T. Abbott, Allendale, re-elected; Third—W. W. W. T. Johnson, re-elected; Fourth—A. G. Laimer, Allendale; Fifth—T. J. Straight, Allendale; Sixth—D. L. W. Morris, Allendale.
MISSOURI.
TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 11.—Chairman Breidenbach this morning claims that the Populists have elected six of the eight Congressmen. He claims that complete returns from the Second District give Moore a majority and that the Third, Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth districts are to be decided by the official committee.
On joint ballot, the Democrats will have 59 and the Republicans 57. As 61 votes are necessary for a majority, this leaves the balance in the hands of two Populist assemblymen. These three men were formerly Republicans and are thought on the election of a United States Senator they will vote with the Republi-

Fears of Manipulation of the Returns by Republican Officials.
CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 11.—It is a little better than idle to undertake to say before the official count is received how Ohio stands, either as to the presidential or the State ticket. The computations made by the State committee and by the newspaper are based upon unofficial, and, in most counties upon partly estimated reports. The only thing they do show with certainty is that nothing but the entire official count will disclose the true situation. For instance, the General-Gazette (Rep.) of this city gives the Cleveland electors a plurality of 710. It says this is based on official and semi-official returns from eighty-one counties and estimates from the remaining seven counties.
On the other hand, the Enquirer (Dem.) states that the Democratic experts have the official figures from fifty-four counties and have received telegraphic advices from sixty-four counties, and that the result is favorable to the Republicans, but they decline to give any further estimates. The Republican claim upon the same basis is the election of Taylor, the Republican Secretary of State by 1,450. Then there is the singular predilection of voters in voting
CONGRESS.
How the Two Houses of the Fifty-third Congress Stand Politically.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—To-day's returns make some changes in delegations to the lower House of Congress and alter slightly in yesterday's indications as to the political standing of the Senate. In California two Republicans and one Populist, it is thought, will hold the balance of power in joint ballot of the Legislature to name a United States Senator. The indications now are that he will be a Democrat.

The indications to-day are that the Fusionists will control the North Dakota Legislature, which yesterday was thought to be Republican. This will place another Populist in the Senate. This will give the Populists probably 6 votes in the Senate, reducing the Democrats to 42 and the Republicans to 40, thus giving the People's party the balance of power in the upper house.

Confidence is expressed here that the People's party's Senators, or a number of them, will be elected. The proposal for a reduction of the tariff to practically give that party control of the Senate is being considered.

In the Lower House the political status of the members from three districts in California, two in Nebraska and one in New Hampshire, is not yet known. The returns to-day indicate that the House will stand as shown in the following table:

Electoral College Figures From 1824 to 1892.

The compilation of figures in the annexed table show that the electoral vote for Grover Cleveland will be the largest ever cast for a presidential candidate. Statistics bearing on the electoral vote do not go back of 1824 because of the incompleteness of the record. The electoral and popular votes for the two highest candidates only are given here:

Electoral College Figures From 1824 to 1892.

First District—W. R. Brawley (Dem.), re-elected; Second—W. J. T. Abbott, Allendale, re-elected; Third—W. W. W. T. Johnson, re-elected; Fourth—A. G. Laimer, Allendale; Fifth—T. J. Straight, Allendale; Sixth—D. L. W. Morris, Allendale.

CONGRESS.

How the Two Houses of the Fifty-third Congress Stand Politically.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—To-day's returns make some changes in delegations to the lower House of Congress and alter slightly against certain electors of their party, which must be taken into consideration. In a vote so close as this it is possible that a portion of both tickets might be elected.

Nervousness over possible manipulation of the returns is already apparent. The Republican Secretary of State, Col. C. L. Poorman, is the State Supervisor of Elections, and it has already been suggested that an amendment to the state law requiring that in the event of the discovery by the Secretary of State of any error in the returns, the county clerk for correction would not be obeyed by the present Secretary of State on the ground that the new law puts the county boards in charge of election returns and does not require or authorize them to make corrections in the event of any error in the returns.

Confidence is expressed here that the People's party's Senators, or a number of them, will be elected. The proposal for a reduction of the tariff to practically give that party control of the Senate is being considered.

In the Lower House the political status of the members from three districts in California, two in Nebraska and one in New Hampshire, is not yet known. The returns to-day indicate that the House will stand as shown in the following table:

STAED'S VOTE.

Henry Pohlman May Contest the Sheriff's Election.

Ford Smith Watching the Slow Official Count.

O'NEILL CHARGES HIS DEFEAT TO BIRED ELECTION JUDGES.

The Congressman Says He Can Prove Return Were Raised for His Opponent—He Will Contest in Congress if Other Remedies Fail—What Mr. Joy Says—St. Louis State and Federal Officers—Candidates for the Mayoralty Being Brought Out.

Recorder of Voters James L. Carlisle began the official count of the election returns this morning, assisted by the Democratic Justice, James McCaffrey, and the Republican J. F. Miser. The count will not be completed till to-morrow night, if then. It is being made simply on the returns of the judges. Their figures are taken as they stand on their lists, put down on the sheets of the Recorder and then added up. The footings are the only original work of the Board. The tally sheets of the judges and clerks, which represent the first count of the ballots, are not examined at all. As both judges and clerks were very ignorant men in many cases, there is a chance of many mistakes between the ballots and the final figures of the Returning Board. When the count began to-day the exhibition of incompetency on the part of the judges and clerks was evident, and the public was astounded. Here a card had been made when a judge should have done it. Then the returns showed no vote at all for some of the city candidates, and an inspection of the tally sheets, after some delay, showed that the judges had forgotten to insert the vote, although it had been counted. Much time was lost in getting the disorderly returns in such shape that they could be counted.

POHLMAN THINKS OF CONTESTING. Ford Smith was present watching the count for John H. Pohlman, the defeated candidate for sheriff, who is inclined to contest Patrick Staed's election. Mr. Smith carefully took the vote for sheriff as it was called out in each precinct. "I don't care to talk about our plans now," he said. "We have evidence of the grossest frauds in several of the wards. We know just what they were, and where they were without this count, but I want to watch it, anyway."

Mr. Smith was not at all depressed by the returns. He joked with Richard Carlisle and the justices, and suggested once, when an especially suspicious return was presented, that St. Louis should establish a school of instruction for election officials. Dr. J. H. Parrish had a representative watching the count also. Dr. Parrish got an impression somehow that the vote itself was going to be counted, and he had heard that Mr. O'Neill presents some votes for him had been thrown out.

MR. O'NEILL AND MR. JOY. Congressman John J. O'Neill and Congressman-elect Charles F. Joy, the two candidates in the Eleventh District, were both present during the morning session when the returns were read. Mr. Joy left in a few minutes after Mr. O'Neill. Mr. Joy was smiling and Mr. O'Neill's brow was black with chagrin. "I tell you," he said to a reporter, as he leaped up against a wall of the ballot-boxes that had surrounded him. "This sort of thing is not politics; it's a sentiment, and the sentiment of the men concerned in it will be wearing zebra suits if they don't look out. These men don't stand for the men outside the polls, among the hoodlums, but put them inside, behind the windows. It was there the work was done, right among the judges and clerks."

He is in a disagreeable position if, after saying those things, I should find myself unable to prove them, but I can do them. I mean in the count by hitting the vote for Joy—that is, the men tallying the vote added a few votes to the tallying in most instances where Joy was on the face of the return. One Judge in a certain precinct tells me that the judges in his polling place were falsified by twelve votes, and that the men in that precinct where Joy didn't know a soul and where he had lots of friends giving a majority for him?"

"What steps do you intend to take?" "To count the seat in Congress is the last resort. I have several more remedies to try before I get to that. Among them is an application to the courts to have the Secretary of State issue the certificate to Joy."

Mr. Joy smiled when asked what he intended to do to prove that Mr. O'Neill go ahead, "said he. "If he opens the ballot boxes, the count of the votes will show that I have beaten him by 2,000."

Closing the Headquarters.

The Republican headquarters have disappeared from Broadway and Fourth street, and their great white and black banners are gone. Secretary L. M. Hall is back, smiling at his desk in the office of a trust company in the Orrel building, and Chairman J. H. Bothwell has returned to his office in the same building. The Republicans' Chairman Harvey W. Salmon was making out checks all day for bills. He, Secretary Sam Cook, Al Morrow, the state auditor, and others will go home to buy, and the rooms will be put to their customary use as hotel parlors again. The Governor-elect is here in the home of Nevada, and intends to stay there and rest for several weeks. He will be inaugurated as Governor of the State Jan. 3.

He Led Even Cleveland.

Treasurer-elect Rufus N. Ramsay of Illinois called at the Democratic State headquarters this morning, accompanied by J. D. Baker, formerly treasurer of St. Clair County. Mr. Ramsay led the democratic ticket to the polls yesterday, running and besiegled with inquiries as to the man Illinois would put forward for the gubernatorial nomination. He thought that Morrison or Ben Clegg would get a portfolio. Mr. Baker said that Morrison would probably be pushed for secretary of the Treasury.

Gov. Stone's Friends.

Governor-elect Stone's St. Louis appointments were discussed generally at the Laclede Hotel to-day, and with that there was much said about the men who would influence the Governor in making them. "There's an impression that Stone will take like an impression from St. Louis in making up his appointments," said an intimate friend of the Governor-elect. "That is, a friend of the Governor-elect, that is, a friend of the State." Stone and his intimate friends are close friends and have always been intimate. It may be taken for granted that in making his appointments for St. Louis, Stone will consult both Rainwater and Bannerman.

Spring Election Harbingers.

A group of Republican and Democratic officeholders to-day discussed the spring campaign at the City Hall. They agreed that the election just passed had cut down the available candidates on both sides to Wainright and Ziegler for the Republicans, and John Wells and James Bannerman for the Democrats. Some of those present stated positively that Chairman George C. Scott and Frank opened the campaign for Mr. Wells, it beginning in the early part of the Democratic City Convention when Mr. Wells was made the permanent chairman.

George Reynolds's Successor.

Ex-Judge Thos. J. Portis has strong friends at work for him getting together influence sufficient to secure him the appointment of United States District Attorney of the Eastern District. Ex-State Representative R. M. Bodine of Paris and ex-Attorney General John M. Wells is also a candidate. The office has gone to the city and country without preference previously, St. Louis has no special influence. Judge Portis, however, having been a defeated candidate for Criminal Judge before the last city election, will get the support of the Democrats in St. Louis very generally. Ex-District Attorney Thos. M. Bashaw, who has been talked of as a candidate, said to-day that he would not ask for the place.

Carried to the Poll.

An example of the enthusiasm of the Democrats in last Tuesday's contest, was the action of Mr. Erastus Wells, who was confined to his home at Webster, St. Louis, for a count of years. He had his coachman carry him to his carriage last Tuesday and drive him to the polling place at Carondelet, a distance of about a mile, to vote for Grover Cleveland and the Democratic ticket. None of the family of the retired street railway magnate knew of his trip to Carondelet until his return.

Tony Stuver's Office.

The politicians consider it a foregone conclusion that Tony Stuver will be offered a place on the Police Board under the new Governor. Mr. Stuver has been actively working for Stone ever since the campaign began. He was one of the most active in the campaign of the Dalton and Gibson St. Louisans. Dr. Frank J. Lutz will push him strongly and has nothing else to ask from the Governor-elect.

John D. O'Keefe's Room.

John D. O'Keefe, the dealer in printers' supplies, has been brought out as a candidate to succeed Col. Griff Prather as Coal Oil Inspector in St. Louis. O'Keefe is the President of the Twenty-fourth Ward Tammany Club, one of the most Democratic organizations in St. Louis, and was an overseer in the Street Department till the beginning of the local fight against Mayor Noonan and Dick Dalton last summer.

Mr. Stuver has been actively working for Stone ever since the campaign began. He was one of the most active in the campaign of the Dalton and Gibson St. Louisans. Dr. Frank J. Lutz will push him strongly and has nothing else to ask from the Governor-elect.

JOHN D. O'KEEFE'S ROOM.

John D. O'Keefe, the dealer in printers' supplies, has been brought out as a candidate to succeed Col. Griff Prather as Coal Oil Inspector in St. Louis. O'Keefe is the President of the Twenty-fourth Ward Tammany Club, one of the most Democratic organizations in St. Louis, and was an overseer in the Street Department till the beginning of the local fight against Mayor Noonan and Dick Dalton last summer.

COL. GEORGE BADER was rushed to the front too late to save the country.

TWO DAYS after the Democratic victory the New Orleans strike is settled—see?

LOCAL Democrats ought to be satisfied with the black eye the Republicans gave them.

THE admission of new States of sparse population cannot help a bad and dying cause.

PENNSYLVANIA is still Republican, but it does not signify. The Keystone State is private property.

GEN. LEW WALLACE says it was caused by a desire to break party bonds. To lift the plutocratic mortgage would be more interesting.

DEMOCRATIC organs will be kept busy until the 4th of March making up Cleveland's Cabinet. He will make it up himself on that date.

SECRETARY FOSTER thinks it "strange." So do all the other Republicans who could not see the immorality of their high-tariff scheme.

THERE is a Democratic monkey in St. Louis, but the editor of the organ cannot agree with the rest of the party as to its identity and lurking place.

THE Republican orators made the mistake of not following Knute Nelson's example of knocking down the man in his crowd who put hard questions.

THE blindness of the Republican leaders is illustrated by Joe Manley's belief that the farm vote was loyal to the old party. They cannot see even after the event.

MEPHISTOPOLENS multiplied twenty fold in the persons of millionaire contractorists once more vindicated his character. He willed the worst and worked the best.

REPUBLICANS are casting about for something or someone to blame. Frick can take it. His shoulders are broad, and that contribution didn't exhaust his wealth.

Now is a good time for our Republican friends to remember Lincoln's remark when Douglas defeated him for the Senate in 1858: "I am like the boy who stumped his toe. It hurt too bad to laugh, and I am too big to cry."

THE voters of the country would read with pleasure a letter from President Cleveland giving his views of the political situation, but they are pretty well informed as it stands if their work of Tuesday indicates anything.

PRESIDENT-ELECT CLEVELAND should call the Fifty-third Congress together as soon as the law will permit to begin the work of redeeming the pledges of the Democratic party to the people and of freeing them from the burden of the iniquitous McKinley bill. The sooner this work is completed the better for the people and the party.

CLEVELAND is not only the one man who has been nominated for the presidency three times in successive conventions, but the only man who has been beaten for a second term following the first and then renominated and elected.

MR. HARRISON's afflictions will remind newspaper readers of Mr. Greeley's unhappy declining years. Both Mrs. Greeley and Mrs. Harrison died in the closing weeks of presidential canvases in which their husbands were defeated.

THE Chicago Tribune has discovered that wage-workers were discontented with their big wages because they were not bigger and therefore knocked their employers' party in the neck. As an example this ought to be satisfactory to the Homestead men who are not getting any wages at all.

IT is safe to say that the patronage will not be at the "absolute disposal" of any clique or faction. Mr. Cleveland owes his election to the people. The influence of this or that "Hall" was as a summer zephyr to a hurricane. The patronage will be at the absolute disposal of the President, who understands his instructions.

THE tariff sharpers who wrote Mr. McKinley's bill overlooked one very important fact. A high tariff robs Republicans as well as Democrats. The Republican poor man is as needy as the Democratic poor man. The Republican poor man and the Democratic poor man have both refused to be robbed.

IT is bitterness and gall to Mr. McKinley to read the opinions of other Republican statesmen who are saying that the Republican defeat is largely due to the passage of the McKinley bill. He would like to know why they didn't exert themselves to modify it if it was so dangerous.

THE news comes from Buffalo, Wyo., that a woman who did not enter the race until the morning of election day was chosen Justice of the Peace by a big majority. Her name is given as Mrs. Ann Scaley of Finn Precinct. There is a fishy suggestion about the story.

THE New York Tribune's information to the Western Tribune belongs to the Government because Morse's first line belonged to it and was leased to parties who did not renew the lease, calls for a card from that eminent telegraphic authority, Dr. Norton Green.

IT quiet, too, all apprehension that the American people can be tricked out of their rights or deceived more than once by sophistical politicians. Four years ago public opinion was wavering on economic questions and the election of Harrison signified only that voters needed more time to study the subject, meanwhile keeping matters as they were. It was a result of the natural conservatism of ignorance. This ignorance was mistaken for stupidity by men who prided themselves on their understanding of political influences. This ignorance was mistaken for stupidity by men who prided themselves on their understanding of political influences. The magnitude of their mistake shows the superiority of the political sense of the people over that of blinded partisans or corrupt manipulators of political machinery. They had waged it not here and there, but all over the United States ever since the most atrocious tariff ever concocted was put into effect in the make up of any other Sunday paper in the West.

IT is confidently presented week after week as the best Sunday paper published in this city judged by any comparison you may see fit to make between it and its competitors.

In the make up of the Sunday Post-Dispatch more men and women are employed, more news and attractive reading matter purchased, more remarkable features secured, more effort applied, more artistic ability exercised and more money expended than in the make up of any other Sunday paper in the West.

IT is confidently presented week after week as the best Sunday paper printed west of the Mississippi. The claim is made in advance. Ample time is given to the reader to pass upon the question for himself and to decide if this claim is not justified.

We invite comparison of department with department, feature with feature and issue with issue. If the Sunday Post-Dispatch is not found to be the best, the reasonable and expected result will be that the reader will stop taking the Sunday Post-Dispatch and take some other paper.

Urging that this comparison be made we have no fear of the result.

THE WEST IN POWER.

The day that Cleveland was nominated the Post-Dispatch declared that the Democracy, having chosen him in defiance of the protests and threats of the New York politicians, could and should elect him without their help. It urged upon the Democrats of the country outside of New York the importance of freeing the party from the domination of the New York spoils machine and of freeing national elections from the curse of dependence upon the vote of New York, where opportunities for corrupt and treacherous work are greatest.

THE defeat of the Republican party has eliminated almost every one of the men hitherto conspicuous and left it practically without leadership. Harrison probably would not resume the place if he could. McKinley is an impossibility. Allison even now forgotten and Aldrich a discredited attorney. These are the only men who aspired and attained to respectability or commanded the respect of any considerable number of their fellow-partisans who are bound to a spoils machine and are under the influence of Wall street.

The fear of the money and machine power will not longer act as a bar to just and progressive legislation.

This result opens a brilliant vista of possibilities to the Democracy. Having won the vast majority of the wealth producing people of this country it can link them to it by meeting their needs; wishes and aspirations in defiance of the demands and threats of the wealth grabbers.

The politics and legislation of this country have been under the control of the Democratic party to the people and of the centers of the Northeast to the detriment of the whole people for many years. The Democratic party has the opportunity to break this control without fear of the consequences, and by redeeming and preserving the rights and interests of all the people to retain their confidence and strengthen its power.

THE SPOILS WOLVES.

Consolation for defeat is offered Republicans in signs of wrangling which, before the returns have been counted, are manifest among the politicians and spoils hunters of the victorious party. The Republicans are shorn of power and place, but they can eat their crust in peace while the wolves of Democracy bark and bite over the bones of the dead.

CHAIRMAN CARTER has finally assured the President that he has been defeated by a pronounced majority and tops of the chump monument he has erected for himself during the campaign with the remark that the result can only be "attributed to a reaction against the progressive policy of the Republican party."

THE Kaiser's military bill is delayed by the procrastination of several German States that are curious to know where the annual $16,000,000 to carry out the bill is to come from. With no surplus in the imperial treasury, this curiosity is altogether natural. The Kaiser ought to tell if he knows.

LOCUST STREET REALTY.

THE Y. M. C. A.'S PROPERTY AT THE CORNER OF ELEVENTH STREET SOLD.

Hannett-Anderson-Wade and Nichols & Ritter Buy the Site for $128,000—Other Transactions and Improvements on the Street.

The Young Men's Christian Association's property at the northwest corner of Eleventh and Locust streets was purchased jointly to-day by the Hannett-Anderson-Wade Real Estate Co. and the Nichols-Ritter Real and Financial Co. for $128,000.

This transaction makes the transfers of Locust street property within the past two weeks foot up $22,575. in the one block between Eleventh and Twelfth streets.

In addition to that two ninety-nine year leases have been entered into in the meantime providing for two buildings on Locust street, one of the southwest corner, the other at the northwest corner of Eighth, both of which will be sold for $10,000. more than that, within the brief period of the past two weeks the Colorado Building Co. has been organized to erect the third building in the block on Locust street, a half block on Ninth street opposite the Custom-house, extending from Olive street to Locust, full one-half block, which will be the site of last evening's Post-DISPATCH. These transactions fully verify that this paper has been printing about the prospective phenomenal development of one of the most and heretofore most neglected of the central down-town business streets on which the whole property has doubled within the past three months.

Negotiations for the purchase of the Young Men's Christian Association property were concluded by the Hannett-Andersonpossession of an option to perfect the purchase of the property within a period of one year. The property has a frontage of 120 feet on Locust street at a depth of 108 on Locust street, and the building is still there, but the sacred editors doomed soon to become a victim of the house-wrecker, who levels the way for the grandest development of the city, such as St. Louis and New York.

Offers to buy to lease this valuable down-town corner at a good advance have already come in from the new proprietors who now control the site, and they say that unless they conclude to dispose of it soon, which is not probable, they will sell it at a price which will be merely building in the every way worthy of themselves and the new era of improvements about to be inaugurated for Locust street.

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES.

ANNIVERSARY OF THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH'S ORGANIZATION.

A sketch of the Pioneer Presbyterian Congregation of the West—Children's Home Society Meeting—Christian Ministers Meet—General Religious News.

The seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the First Presbyterian Church, Sarah Street and Washington avenue, will be celebrated next Sunday. The occasion will be a very remarkable one in the history of Presbyterianism in the West. The First Presbyterian Church, founded in 1817, was not only the pioneer of Presbyterianism in St. Louis, but one of the first Protestant churches west of the Mississippi. Rev. George E. Martin, the pastor, will give a resume of the church's history in the morning at 11 o'clock. In the evening the pastors of the Second Baptist, the First Congregational, Christ Church Cathedral, and the Second, Grand Avenue, North and Compton Avenue Presbyterian Churches will take part in a farewell service of congratulation. The career of the First Presbyterian Church dates from Nov. 15, 1817, when Rev. Salmon Giddings organized the church. Rev. Mr. Giddings, the father of the organization in St. Louis, he having been sent to this field by the Connecticut Home Missionary Society in 1815. Ten persons signed the original organization papers of the First Presbyterian Church, and the pastor remained with Mr. Giddings in a schoolroom, on Market opposite the Court-house, for the hardy Connecticut missionary conducted a school as well as presided in the Presbyterian Church. On Jan. 11, 1819, $5,000 was raised to erect a permanent house. In 1821, a brick building, 46x30, two stories high, with a cupola and spire, situated on a lot fronting on Fourth street and extending from St. Charles street to Washington avenue, was dedicated to the service of God. This was the First Presbyterian Church, although it cost only $8,000. The congregation was $5,000 in debt. On Nov. 19, 1826, Rev. Mr. Giddings was formally installed over the First Presbyterian Church, a congregation in St. Louis, by the Presbytery of Missouri, but the good pastor did not long enjoy the fruit of his labor, for he died Feb. 1, 1827. He was succeeded by Rev. William C. Scott, D. D., of Trenton, N. J., who was next to Rev. Mr. Giddings a Presbyterian missionary in St. Louis. He was succeeded by Rev. Mr. Wm. Wiser became pastor of First Church, Dr. Wiser died in 1837, and was succeeded by Dr. Asa M. Bullard, who was called to the pastorate of First Church, Dr. Bullard, who is well remembered by St. Louisans, had not however, come to St. Louis, the Bridge disaster in 1852, Dr. Bullard had begun the erection of a new church on the northwest corner of Fourth and Locust streets, and it was a memorial to Dr. Bullard. It cost over $100,000. On the dedication day services were held in the new church. Rev. Salmon Giddings, were taken into the church and deposited in a vault immediately under the pulpit. The pall bearing were Col. John O'Fallon, Dr. Wm. Wiser, Jesus Lindell, Matthew Carr, and George K. Budd. Dr. Bullard was in turn succeeded by Rev. Henry Rev. Charles A. Dickey, installed July 4, 1859, and Rev. H. D. Gause, who was installed in Dec. 1861. The old First Presbyterian Church became too small for the members who had moved West, and several years ago the present imposing structure, on Locust street and Locust avenue was erected. The former church has recently been remodeled and is now the German Theater.

The First of the Series.

The first of a series of six entertainments under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association will be given this evening at the Central Branch, Twenty-ninth and Pine streets. The program will include Miss May North, a highly praised soprano singer, will be assisted by Miss Gertrude Lufkin, cornetist and pianist; Miss Annie M. Webster, violinist, and Mr. Frank Reynolds, humorist.

Rev. Braithwaite Married.

Rev. Edward C. Braithwaite, pastor of Aubert Place Congregational church of this city, was married to Miss Ida M. Van Camp at Cleveland, O., yesterday. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, Rev. Albert Van Camp, pastor of the Taylor Street Methodist Church, Cleveland. O. Rev. Mr. Braithwaite and his bride will come to St. Louis next week.

Religious Notes.

A series of special meetings are being held every evening at the First Baptist Church. The Rev. E. B. Chapman will give a sermon outline at the preachers' meeting next week.

The subject for the lecturer of the Ethical Society on Sunday morning is to be: "What Is Conscience?"

The new building of the Fourth Baptist Church will be ready for dedication by the end of the month.

Rev. H. Haneworth, presiding elder of the Farmington District, reports a fine prospect of enlargement in his charge.

The ladies have resumed their monthly meeting with noon-day lunch, on the second Wednesday at the Orphans' Home on the second floor.

Dr. M. C. Clark, editor of the St. Louis Christian Advocate, has been appointed a member of the Advisory Council of the Religious Congresses of the World's Columbian Exposition.

A month's mind service was held at Indian Creek No. 2, yesterday in memory of the late Father Mahon, the pastor at that place. Father Head and several other city priests attended.

Rev. W. L. Thomas, pastor of the Lafayette Baptist Church, will begin a series of religious meetings next week. He will be assisted by Rev. J. T. M. Johnston of Jefferson.

The Baptist City Missionary Board have decided to transfer Rev. J. T. Colwell from the country to St. Louis to become General Secretary. Mr. Colwell will be engaged in the same work as the Board.

Sunday, Nov. 15, services will be resumed at Temple Shalom, Kemeth, corner Seventeenth and Pine, at 10 o'clock a.m. Services will be held at 7:45 p.m. on "Peace by the Sword," and at 8 p.m. on "Alphonse's Branch," No. 447, Catholic Knights of America, a great hall, Grand and Locust avenues, last evening for the benefit of the steep fund of the Rock Church.

A novel entertainment was given at First Christian Church, Locust avenue, on Saturday night, in the costumes of all nations built a missionary ship on the platform, and then, manning the vessel, sailed for the next port.

Sunday evening is open night at the Pilgrim Congregational Church; the pastor, a Rev. H. A. Stimson, D. D., will speak upon "The duty of the citizen with regard to country." Service begins at 7:45.

The Empire coat worn by the taller of the two children shown in the illustration is of dull blue ribbed silk. The yoke and deep cuffs are of blue cloth, embroidered in white and gold. The Empire sash tied above the waist is of the blue ribbed silk. A narrow band of black astrachan fur forms the edging to the coat. The other coat is of white Ottoman silk with a deep square bertha of silk, trimmed with pink fur. The coat of the girl goes down in front of the coat and around the bottom. The coat is wadded and lined with pale green tufted silk. It is the most exquisite of little garments.

The women's evening gowns are few in number are rejoicing in the popularity of the adjustable lace front and silk vest. These bits of filmy lace, combined with bright silk, readily transform an old gown.

FOR THE CHILDREN.

Simplicity and White Silk Coats Will Be in Order.

This year it would seem more than ever before, that fashion is no respecter of age. The gowns of the children may indicate simplicity of design, but you may be sure it is fashionable simplicity. Small girls who own wonderful doll houses and large families of dolls with real hair and whole trunks full of beautiful dresses, and who sleep in little brass bedsteads all draped with the softest of silk curtains—these girls are now wearing silk coats.

The like. The binding may be first basted about the edges and then stitched by machine and well pressed, and the sewing, after the entire case is thoroughly basted, is simple work. Three little loops of tape at the top will serve to hang it against the wall. This is really a valuable acquisition to the toilet-room, for it effectively keeps everything in place, cologne-bottle, hair-brush, hand-glass, and comb, whisk broom, velvet brush, powder-puff, sponge, toothbrush, button-hook, shoe-horn, pin-cushion, nail-buffer, etc., scissors, powder, whitening and Rosaline, eighteen articles all in place. It may also be made of cretonne or chintz or even of white linen bound with ribbon and powdered over with dainty embossed flower sprays, but the brown linen duck will be found most enduring and serviceable.

FALL JACKETS.

They Have a Jaunty Cut and Add to the Wearer's Attractions.
There is a jaunty cut to the fall jackets which makes them very fetching. The two styles shown in the illustration are leading de-

For the Promenade.

Sign. Coat No. 1 is of checket cheviot made double-breasted with a peculiarly cut collar. The cheviot has a background of dull blue. The checks are marked off by black lines, while woven through the mottled background is a thread of silver. The broad collar is lined with black silk, and it is cut to show just a suggestion of a black silk vest. Two rows of pearl buttons with wide silver rims decorate the front of the coat.

Jacket No. 2 resembles the Mikado jacket. It is of smooth brown cloth, with a binding of oriental braid, where gold threads are woven through the mottled background of green and scarlet.

The jacket is cut away to show the waist-coat, which varies in material and color with the changes in temperature. From the straight collar, half way down the front of jacket, is a row of round buttons of shining gilt. Both jackets are made with the plain coat sleeve.

Made of Handkerchiefs.

Pretty cases for handkerchiefs can be made of the handkerchiefs themselves, with a little silk and ribbon. Procure a sheet linen handkerchief with an embroidered edge, or if preferred, one with a hemstitched hem and embroidered corners. Cut a thin pad of cotton wadding, into which put some sachet powder, then cover both sides with this silk of a pale color. Fasten it with a few stitches in each corner on the inside of the handkerchief. The silk will show faintly through the fine linen. The four corners are then folded over to meet in the center and fastened with very narrow ribbons. The lining is easily removed when the outside is to be washed.

The plain waist which is worn in the afternoon appears again in the evening bright and beautiful. A pretty lace front of this description is made of a deep flounce of Venetian lace of a creamy shade attached to a shirred or gathered waist and a straight collar or old rose moire ribbon.

Another dainty fancy is draped in a triangular bib of plain blue mouseline de sole, outlined with a double row of point de Bourbone lace. The high collar is of the shirred mouseline de sole with a jaunty black velvet bow at the base. The plaid silk vests come in all the bright shades and are worn with the jackets just at present in such favor.

The rainbow silk front is a novelty. It is made of graduated folds of rainbow shades of silk exquisitely blended. For a young lady's bodice the design shown in the illustration is new and effective. It is fashioned of mauve uncut velvet with a circular fluff of soft mauve silk. The bodice is cut to show a chemise of pale yellow crepe de chine, over which is a lattice work, effected by straps of mauve velvet. The short sleeves are of mauve silk very highly puffed.

ANOTHER circus at the Globe rebuilding sale, 701 to 713 Franklin avenue, for three days only—$1.00 Swiss Candy fancy wool, merino, camel's hair and balbriggan underwear, 90c; $3 all-wool Jersey coats, $1.95; $1.50 embroidered bosom full dress shirts, 95c.

Perfumes and Drugs.

Doctors of old were wiser in their generation than our present lights of medical science. They made more use of perfumery than of drugs to cure the sick. The four thieves who stripped the victims of the plague at Marseilles owed the preservation of their health to a simple concoction of herbs, which made them laugh at death until they were caught, when three of them were hanged; the fourth saved his life by disclosing the secret to the doctors, who had probably forgotten Hippocrates' experiment or had never heard of it.

The Necesaire.

"A necesaire" is a convenient thing for a girl going to boarding school, or, indeed, for any young woman when traveling. Two yards of brown linen canvas, commonly called duck, make one. Two bags of colored sand will be required to bind the canes, and two yards of narrow elastic to draw up the pockets and some chamois skin to line several of these, and a bit of oil skin for the lining of one, to be used as a sponge.

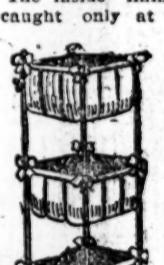

The same idea may be carried out for a small workbasket, using small wooden sticks and the quart fruit basket.

A Grand Old Woman.

Sir Andrew Clark has often been heard to say that Mrs. Gladstone is quite as much entitled to the name of the Grand Old Woman as her evergreen husband is to that of the Grand Old Man. On Jan. 12 last Mrs. Gladstone's 80th birthday came round, and she passed the morning in writing letters to her friends in England, a task which she accomplished without wearing glasses of any kind. As to her size, in fact, she has never known her to be more than five feet and her eyes are as bright as those of a young woman. Every morning passed by Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone at Haywood sees them both at church, nearly three-quarters of a mile away from the castle, in the early morning. Mrs. Gladstone is a great walker, and loves to take a walk to church and back again, taking particular pleasure in this matinée exercise when the snow is falling heavily. Mrs. Gladstone goes thither and back in her little pony carriage, which she drives herself, and sees her husband in a quiet little room. Now stir in enough Chinese vermillion to give color, and you have a really good mixture. The thickness of shellac differs, so you must use your judgment as to quantity.

Coughing Leads to Consumption.

Kemp's Balsam stops the cough at once.

that in cleaning they can be pulled out and brushed. If possible have holes bored in the canes at the right distance for suspending the baskets. It will doubtless not be possible, however, in which case cut grooves around the canes, and then with twine run through the corners of the basket with a big darning needle, tie them securely, concealing the twine with ribbon bows.

The same idea may be carried out for a small workbasket, using small wooden sticks and the quart fruit basket.

are instances of the bad mixtures of color to be seen in the milliner's window just now. Feathers and great velvet bows and paste ornaments are the trimming of every hat, though you never see two hats alike. Birds are not worn at all.

Paint for Kitchen Chairs.

If you wish to give a freshening coat of paint to your kitchen chairs and wooden pails and buckets you will be glad to know of a kind of red paint which is easily made and which possesses, moreover, the virtue of drying quickly. To produce this red paint mix a quart of white paint in a quart of water. Now stir in enough Chinese vermillion to give color, and you have a really good mixture. The thickness of shellac differs, so you must use your judgment as to quantity.

"They are going to bust" is what competitors say. Why, they are selling men's all wool fall overcoats for $1.50 and pretty good suits, though not all wool, for the same price. Also $2 suits and overcoats for $2.00 and $2.50, at the great rebuilding sale of the Globe, 701 to 713 Franklin avenue.

Snuff pearl teeth and sweet breath by using Crushed Ross, 25 cents, at all dealers in toilet articles.

EAST ST. LOUIS.

Hartman Leaves the City—Democratic Jollification.

Ambrose Hartman, the young man whose bad marksmanship alone prevented him from becoming an assassin, was in the city this morning. Since his escape on Saturday, when he attempted to assassinate Father Christoph Konig and Father John Harkins at the rectory of St. Henry's Catholic Church on Broadway, he occupied a cell at the police station. The men whose lives he would have taken declined to prosecute him, but the police preferred charges of carrying concealed weapons and discharging firearms and he was fined $22. To-day his father paid the fines for him, and he was released on his own recognizance. To avoid personal violence, which there was fear of Hartman went quietly, but hurriedly to the city of Detroit and boarded a train for Indianapolis, where he now lives.

At first it was thought the national ticket signified. The Democrats hardly expected to hold their own on the gubernatorial ticket and the lead of eight votes was a surprise. The colored vote came from the German and colored voters. Jones, the colored barber here, an intelligent man, says that the colored men voted against Fifer.
